Needham B. Broughton . . .

. . . Our Alma Mater

We pause to review the year . . .

1962-1963 was for us a year of growth,
of surprise, of change . . .

Some things, of course, went along pretty much as always—there were the games and pep rallies, the traditional holidays (plus one day for snow, which we thought would never come). As usual, the respective classes sold more barbecue, doughnuts, and magazines than any preceding class. There were the days of Looking Ahead . . . first came College Day, then Career Day, and finally Military Obligations Day for the boys. In addition, many seniors participated in Student Government Day in May. The dramatics classes gave plays, the journalism classes produced newspapers, the music groups put on programs, and the arts and commercial classes won prizes. The dances came and went, beginning with the FHA Homecoming Dance and ending with the beautiful Senior Prom.

But many things were different . . .

A Service Club speaker stirred up controversy that continued for many months afterward, and an unorthodox Easter assembly shocked many of us out of our complacency. In January the Theatre-in-Education project came to Broughton, bringing with it talented Shakespearean actors who presented portions of Romeo and Juliet, Julius Caesar, and Twelfth Night to our delight and enchantment. In the spring the school received an unexpected gift of chinchillas, and in June the seniors graduated in Reynolds Coliseum instead of the traditional Memorial Auditorium, which was undergoing repairs. As usual, Broughton students copped a large number of scholarships and awards; and this year Mr. Holliday, our principal, received a national leadership award, which brought honor to our school.

Much was going on in the Raleigh community, too . . .

Many well-known people came to our city, and many of us went to see or hear them. Ray Charles, the Kingston Trio, and Peter, Paul and Mary attracted the Weejun-wearing set, while Vice-President Lyndon Johnson talked to Democrats, and Reynolds Price, a former Broughton student, published a widely-acclaimed novel. Classic movies came to the Ambassador once a month, and we formed lines a block long to see Pride and Prejudice or David Copperfield.

For the first time in several years Broughton had a rival high school, brand new Enloe High, in Raleigh. The Legislature met this year, but in a new home, for this was the Year of the Opening of the Statehouse, a magnificent edifice which produced enough praise and criticism to last the capital city journalists for some time to come.

More and more we became aware of the world situation, too . . .

The Cuba crisis in October and the tragedy of the Thresher in April awakened new feelings within us as we felt ourselves approaching the responsibilities of adulthood.

Of such was the year 1962-1963 . . . a time for us to learn, to seek, and to grow. And now we stop a moment to reflect on our growth, in the LATIPAC 1963.

Foreword

This year we have chosen time as the theme for our annual. We believe that the reasons for this choice are best expressed in the following selection from The Prophet, by Kahlil Gibran:

You would measure time the measureless and the immeasurable.

You would adjust your conduct and even direct the course of your spirit according to hours and seasons.

Of time you would make a stream upon whose bank you would sit and watch its flowing.

Yet the timeless in you is aware of life's timelessness,

And knows that yesterday is but today's memory and tomorrow is today's dream.

And that that which sings and contemplates in you is still dwelling within the bounds of that first moment which scattered the stars into space.

Who among you does not feel that his power to love is boundless?

And yet who does not feel that very love, though boundless, encompassed within the centre of his being, and moving not from love thought to love thought, nor from love deeds to other love deeds?

And is not time even as love is, undivided and spaceless?

But if in your thought you must measure time into seasons, let each season encircle all the other seasons.

And let today embrace the past with remembrance and the future with longing.

Administration

"To the true teacher,
time's hourglass
should still run gold dust."

The faculty—our friends, helpers, and sometimes adversaries, the sine qua non
of our scholastic experience.

They stalked the halls, plagued
us with requests to show passes, checked rolls, filled out
pink slips, green slips, yellow slips, blue sheets and attendance cards, averaged grades, made out tests, graded us,
kept us in, advised clubs,
went to meetings, and SOMEHOW,
in the midst of all that was going on, found time to teach.

They came in every size, shape, and form. There were the quiet teachers, the violent teachers, the easy teachers, the funny teachers, the young-and-in-love teachers,
and that odd brand,
the English teachers.

And each had his own idiosyncrasies, which we sometimes found annoying but which always lifted the class
out of its humdrumness.

By the end of the year,
Mr. Blakeway had fully convinced us that our ancestors had made a fatal blunder by coming to the colonies . . . Mrs. Peacock always had umpteen things going on at once, and we would sit dumfounded in the midst of it all while she did a scene from Macbeth . . . Mr. Steed and Mr. Broadway always had a kind word for all . . . Mrs.
Donavant would smile sweetly and give tests that neither Kildare nor Casey could pass . . . The language teachers would glibly garble some fluent phrases at us and we would sit and stare and wish the bell would ring.

From 8:45 to 3:30 we were part of the world of our teachers.
And after it was all over, we remembered them with gratefulness for the efforts
they made to give us Education.

MR. JOSEPH Q. HOLLIDAY, Principal

MR. J. WATSON HOLYFIELD, Assistant Principal

Mr. Holliday, Mr. Holyfield, Mr. Blackburn, Mrs. Sandling, Mr. Clark, and the secretaries . . . They worked so smoothly that sometimes we hardly realized they were there. Magically, schedules were made, bulletins
sent out, transcripts sent off,
absences checked, and school functions
planned.

Their friendliness and helpfulness made the office a pleasant place to go (usually).

They patted us on the head and somehow managed to make each student feel special.

Classes

"Counting time is not so important as making time count."

Classes . . . the substance of our school life.

In homeroom we sat bored while the teacher
filled out endless piles of forms or tried to pep us into Giving.

For six periods each day we worked in the bustling quietness of the classroom—a world of pens, pencils, papers, notebooks, brown-backed textbooks, and the smell of chalkdust and heat and newly-mimeographed tests.

And then there was one period to call our own—lunch.

It was a time to relax,
to catch up on the latest gossip,
to study (sometimes),
to complain, to argue, to discuss,
to laugh, to make dates.
The cafeteria itself was composed of gay murals that nobody really looked at and a myriad tangle of chairs, tables, and books.

As we went through the line, the maids greeted us cheerfully with

"May I help you please?"

We learned how to smile at Annie May
to get that extra piece of meatloaf,
how to figure out if the rolls were hot without buying them, and how to get ten people

at a six-chair table (until they changed the arrangement).

And sometimes we had assemblies to break
the monotony of the daily routine . . .

Sitting on the backless bleachers
was a small price to pay for watching science demonstrations, band programs, Honor Society inductions, and beauty courts (and consequently, missing class).

In our classes we learned and developed skills
which will always be part of us.
We grew as Individuals.

Our last assembly.

Togetherness . . .

Good night, sweetheart.

We made a million.

At last we were seniors . . .

We felt that Broughton was truly ours
now. Day after day we retraced our well-worn paths from old lockers through the halls to classrooms that now seemed familiar and warm to us. Study no longer seemed such a drudgery; learning took on new meaning under the guidance of highly skilled teachers whom we come to love and appreciate for their humor, intelligence, and interest in us.

Each event took on new significance throughout the year . . . our last football game, our last dance—and our last assembly.

How proud we felt as we marched down the aisle in our strange-feeling caps and gowns.

We looked around us and really saw—perhaps for the first time—our classmates, some of whom we would never meet again.

Next year we'll all be scattered and gone . . .

but Broughton will always hold a special place in our hearts. It was here that we first began to develop our hopes and ideals . . .

It was here that we first began to find ourselves.

Our junior year—our inbetween year.

No longer cute sophomores and not yet sophisticated seniors, we sometimes felt rather insignificant and unnoticed. But already we were becoming bigger cogs in the school machine.

We had more important jobs, held more important offices. Some of our members were inducted into the honor clubs, and we felt justly proud. We began to take College Boards and to think about careers, and suddenly we realized how close the end, or the beginning, was. "But how did we get here so fast?" we asked ourselves . . .

We were proud of our school, proud of its traditions, and more than ever we wanted to work to make our school proud of us. During this year we gained new independence, and we squared our shoulders and welcomed it.

We were becoming individuals.

Flag Ship - U. S. S. Broughton

Wonder . . .

We'll never forget our sophomore year . . .
Broughton was so big, so new, so strange.

"Will anyone even notice us?" we wondered.

And then our shyness and timidity
were melted by the warmth and friendliness of Broughton.

We began to fuse ourselves into a united class from many different classes at many different schools.

This was a year of "firsts" for us . . .

We went to our first Broughton games, dances, assemblies. How proud

we were to yell "Go, Broughton, go!"

Some of us got our driver's licenses
this year—now we were really grown up . . .

We began to feel a sense of belonging . . .

Our teachers treated us more like adults,
and we welcomed the additional responsibilities
and opportunities to try our wings.

We even came to love being teased for being the youngest in the school.

We were different in many ways, but in one way we were all alike—we loved

Our organizations, the spice of our school life. In them
we learned citizenship, leadership,
and responsibilities.

We served on the Council
committees . . .
There we learned the day-to-dayness of selling pencils at the school store
or fixing menu boards
in the cafeteria.
And there were even larger responsibilities . . .
In hand with faculty advisors
we handled the assemblies, worked with the newspapers in publicizing school events, took charge of lost and found items, set standards
for other school groups,
arranged bus trips to games.
As Student Council committee members we took an active part in the running of the school.

And then there were the clubs . . .
They helped us develop our skills and our personalities;
they added depth to our school life.
We Joined.
We paid dues, participated in service projects, had money-making projects, and held socials.
We found that running a successful organization
took far more hard work
than creative genius.
We waded through Red Tape
on all sides . . .
And at the end of the year
we looked back with pride
on a Good Job Well Done.

Since its organization in 1948, the Student Council has had the following as its purposes: to be of service to the school through its committees, to make rules and regulations for the general welfare and betterment of the school, and to help raise school spirit. Under the advisorship of Mr. J. W. Holyfield, the Council has been the unique leadership organization of the school.

The Council carried out various activities throughout the year. It sponsored the Snowball Dance, the Student Leaders' Banquet, and a reception for new students. The Student Council has approximately eighty-five members, but it is an organization representing every student in the school. Because of our Student Council, the year 1962-63 may well be called a success.

Each year the journalism classes attempt to publish a lasting picture of the school year in our annual—the LATIPAC. Those who work on the annual staff have become a closely knit group in a world of deadlines, unidentified pictures, copy and rush, rush, rush. The lucky members of the seventh period core class were allowed to leave school during class to get ads, and for their journalism exam visited WRAL Television Studio. In March some members of the classes made a trip to New York to attend the annual Press Convention at Columbia University. Miss Paschal served as advisor to the staff.

All in all, it was an exciting year—and here it is, in tangible form, the LATIPAC 1963.

The journalism classes under their advisor, Miss Laura Helen Paschal, published The Hi-Times eight times per year. This school publication carries all school news and features of special interest to the high school. This year, many new features have been added to broaden the appeal of the paper. As a highlight to the year's work, the classes make a five day trip to New York City to attend the Columbia Scholastic Press Association Meeting, a convention for journalism students from various high schools in the country.

Winged Words is the Broughton literary club, which was founded to encourage creative and expository composition and to develop critical judgment among the students at Broughton. The club was organized by a Broughton student, Mary Forest, in the year 1951-52. This year marks the eleventh anniversary of Winged Words which boasts Reynolds Price, a new North Carolina author, as one of its first contributors.

Once a week the eighteen members of Winged Words meet and under the guidance of their advisor, Mrs. Peacock, critically discuss the selections which are submitted by interested students. Any student may submit a story, poem, or essay to Winged Words to be considered for publication in the magazine, which is sold in the spring. The selections for the magazine are made by the members after careful discussion and critical analysis. Style, theme, and originality are just a few of the criteria used to judge a contribution. Winged Words tries to publish only the very best work from all the selections submitted.

The National Honor Society was established "to create an enthusiasm for scholarship, to promote worthy leadership, and to encourage the development of character" at Broughton. The advisors for the year were Mrs. Donavant and Miss Coggin.

Throughout the year the forty-six members of the club acted as monitors for a study hall in the student dining room during the lunch periods. In addition, the members volunteered to coach some of their classmates in difficult subjects before the exam period. In the spring the members enjoyed a picnic in Umstead Park.

In the fall and spring the robed members held a ceremony to induct juniors and seniors into the club. The excitement mounted as the members gave speeches on character, scholarship, leadership, and service. Then tappers searched the audience for the newly selected members and placed the cardboard replicas of the National Honor Society emblem over their heads. After each student was tapped, a quotation, briefly characterizing them, was read. After all the new members were inducted, they repeated together the pledge. Then, following the reading of the Honor Society poem, all the members impressively filed out of the gymnasium.

Service Club

SUSIE MEMORYPresident
 RUSTY BRITTVice-President

 GEORGE BLOUNTSergeant-at-Arms

In 1949 the Student Council organized the Service Club for the purpose of recognizing those students who have given unselfishly of themselves and of their time to the school. Through the years membership in the Service Club has come to mean the highest non-scholastic honor a student can obtain at Broughton.

Financed by the Student Council, the Service Club undertook several projects this year. In October and in February members cleaned and polished all the school trophies. In addition, all new props for the assemblies were made and painted by the group. The annual picnic was held in Umstead Park on April 7. Mr. Clark advised the group.

The Service Club holds two inductions during the year. In the fall 21 seniors were taken into the club and in the spring seniors, juniors, and teachers were inducted. Each new member must receive a unanimous vote by members already in the club. In an impressive assembly program the name of each new member is raised on a card before the student body. Then appropriate quotations are read for each inductee. Following the induction a talk on service is made by a guest speaker. At the end of the year the members of the Service Club elect one boy and one girl member to receive the trophies for outstanding service to the school.

This year has been a successful one for the Service Club, both in recognizing deserving students and in performing worthwhile services to the school.

Under the sponsorship of the Raleigh Kiwanis Club, the Key Club strives to develop initiative and leadership, to provide experience in living and working together, to serve the school and community, to prepare for useful citizenship, and to set and follow high ideals. The club provides money for a scholarship awarded at the end of the school term by the sale of peanut brittle. Through the leadership of the officers and the advisor, Mr. Taylor, the nineteen members operate the concession stands at basketball games, and perform stage work at the Kiwanis Minstrel. Meeting every two weeks, the club holds inductions twice a year, at the beginning of each semester.

These boys meet twice a month at the Y.M.C.A., where they are guided by Mr. Farmer Smith and Mr. Don Cheek. These boys sold the 1962-1963 telephone directory for their money-making project. They concluded the year with a social in the spring.

To grow in knowledge and love of God, to grow in relations with other people, to grow as a person: these are the purposes of the Y-teens. Broughton's 198 Y-teens are divided into six clubs. The presidents, vice-presidents, and program chairmen of these six clubs form the Y-teen Interclub Council. This council plans and coordinates Y-teen activities.

The Interclub Council meets on first and third Monday afternoons at the Y.W.C.A. The individual clubs have meetings on Tuesdays or Thursdays. At least once a month each club has a program. The year's theme of Community Awareness was carried out in many of these programs.

In November two busloads of Y-teens traveled to Washington, D. C., to attend the World Fellowship Service. Janice Young represented North Carolina in the service in the Washington Cathedral.

An informal dance and a potato chip sale rounded out another successful year of Y-teens.

Stimulating sportsmanship is one of the major purposes of the Monogram Club, which is composed of all those boys who have earned an athletic letter.

During the Christmas season, this organization not only supervises the collection of food, clothing, and presents for needy families, but also provides baskets of food for all the maids and janitors. Advised by Coach Walker, these boys are also responsible for ushering at the football and basketball games. At the end of the school term, this club presents an award to its best athlete.

To acquaint girls with the rewards as well as problems of the teaching profession has been the primary goal of the Future Teachers of America this year. More than 70 interested Broughton students have participated in the meetings held on the first and third Wednesdays of each month. Typical programs have included educators discussing the newest trends in teaching, movies on current topics such as the Peace Corps, and panels of F.T.A. members expressing their opinions on education.

In the fall a Mother and Daughter banquet was held for the installation of officers. Also, in November many members attended the District F.T.A. Convention held at U.N.C. Members spent many hours on the Homecoming float which featured "Education Today versus that of Yesterday." Another service was a display for American Education Week. This spring observation in the Raleigh Public Schools was a valuable experience for many planning a teaching profession. A spring social ended a most successful year of F.T.A.

The Future Business Leaders of America has as its purpose to help the Business Education students bridge the gap between the classroom and the business world. Mrs. Dixie Porter and Miss Hazel Price serve as advisors.

The fifty-five members of the F.B.L.A. have many activities throughout the year. Each member sells four boxes of cards annually to enable the club to contribute a token to the Business Department. The club's social activity centers around a dinner for the installation of all officers. The club keeps the typewriters in the school clean and repairs the typewriter covers. Also, each year a group of F.B.L.A. members attend a state convention.

To further interest in every field of home economics is the main purpose of the Future Homemakers of America. Mrs. Yates acts as an advisor to this group, which consists of forty-six members and meets the second Monday night of every month from 7:30 to 8:30.

One of the many activities of the F.H.A. is its money-making project. This year the girls sold food and other articles at a bazaar at the senior barbecue. In November the F.H.A. held a Sadie Hawkins Day Dance in the girl's gym, which was decorated like a barn with autumn scenes in some areas. In addition, the girls worked on a Homecoming float and attended three rallies: county, district, and state.

At the last meeting of the year, the mothers are invited and the following awards are presented: the Crisco Award for the outstanding student in home economics, the Betty Crocker Award, the Vogue Pattern Award, and the McCall Teen Fashion Board Award.

The purpose of the G.A.A. is to promote interest and participation in a variety of competitive activities which will meet and challenge the needs of girls of varying abilities. Sixty-seven girls participated in these activities this year, which included Broughton ball, basketball, volleyball, softball, and tennis.

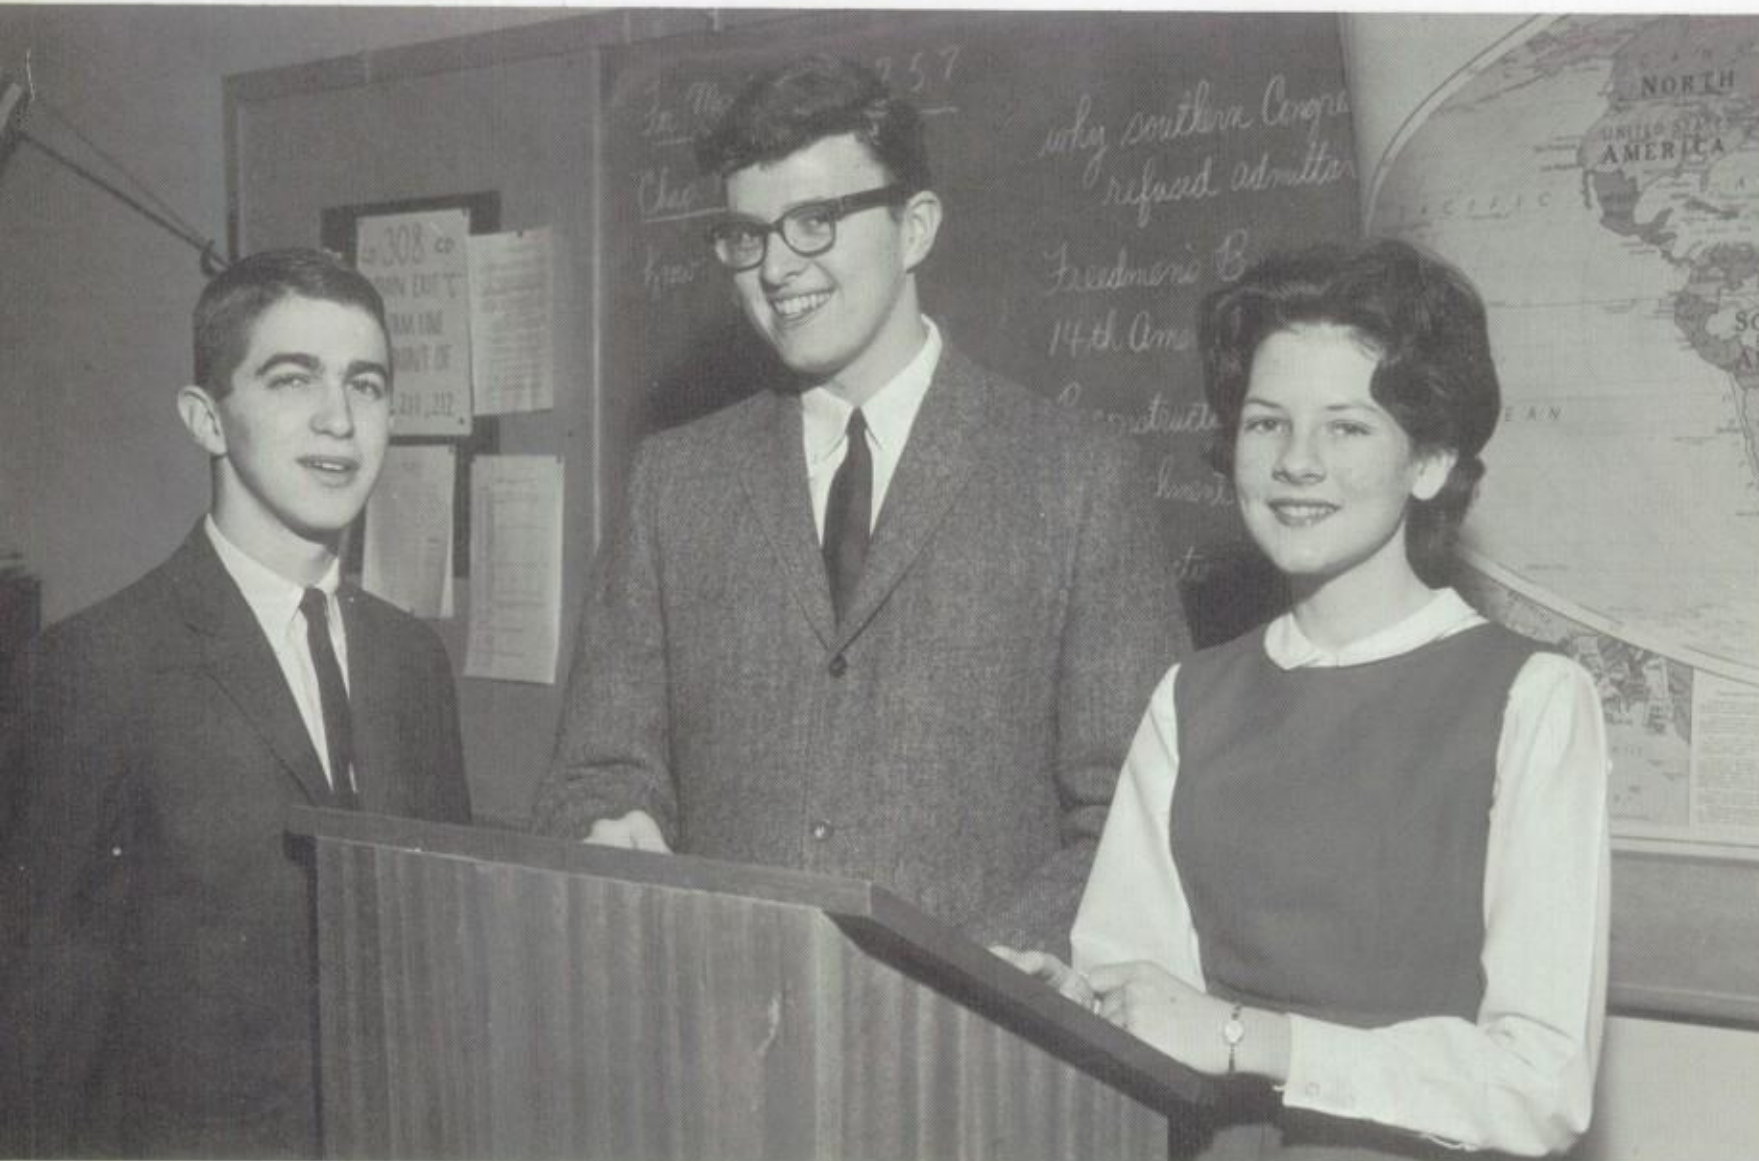

Mrs. Sue Rivers is the new advisor for this active group. Mrs. Rivers worked with the volleyball team which competed against other G.A.A. girls at the annual state G.A.A. playday held at Womans' College in May. The girls ended the successful year with a picnic.

Members of the Broughton Little Theatre have devoted much of their time and effort to presenting plays for the student body. Its purposes have been to instruct students in the functions of a working theater as well as to give talented students the opportunity to perform before an audience. In the Little Theatre, the members became acquainted with back-stage work as well as on-stage performance.

More than fifty members participated in this club, which met each first and third Thursday of the month. This year the Little Theatre's production was "The Loud Red Patrick," which was quite successful.

The Vocational Industrial Club of Broughton has as its purpose to grow in honesty, loyalty, and dependability, and to continue an active search for knowledge. Farmer S. Smith is the club's advisor.

The thirty V.I.C. members meet once a month for a dinner meeting. Their special events during the year include aiding a needy family at Christmas, attending the State V.I.C. convention, and attending the Employer-Employee Banquet, where each boy invites his employer to a dinner meeting. The club has no money-making projects; however, a picnic is held annually for the members.

The V.I.C. is directly related to the vocational industrial classes and further assists the members in doing a better job. The V.I.C. was organized in 1956, and since that time the entire club has been awarded four consecutive gold medal awards for merit.

In 1958 the Broughton Social Studies Club was organized to increase interest in social studies and to honor students of exceptional ability in this field. Meetings are held twice each month, and programs are planned to conform to the purposes of the club. Members learn about local government, world problems, and subjects related to their Social Studies courses.

To become a member of the Social Studies Club, a student must maintain a "B" average and must be voted into the club by its members. This year thirty students and their advisors, Mrs. Fountain and Mr. Morris, participated in club activities. Established last year for the purpose of planning and carrying out Red Cross activities at Broughton, the Red Cross Council consisted of one representative from each homeroom. These and all other interested students met once a month with Miss Coffey, their advisor.

At the first of the school year, each homeroom collected one dollar for every thirty students so that the school could subscribe to the Red Cross Journal. In December the members and other students went to the chapter house and wrapped Christmas packages for the veterans in Durham. On February 6, the club presented a water-safety demonstration which included some basic lifesaving skills.

The Choral Ensemble is a selected group of singers that has brought an honorable name to Needham Broughton over the past years. The purposes of this organization are to sing for the student body, to represent the school at public events, to give public programs, and to afford gifted singers a wide range of musical opportunity.

The Ensemble was organized in 1950. This year the Ensemble had twenty-seven members. The group met every day at fourth period and worked hard with Mrs. Freeman.

In the fall the Ensemble gave an excellent program for the public. It was entitled, "A New York Revue." The Ensemble also sang at such events as the Thanksgiving assembly, Honor Society inductions, Christmas program, Civitan Christmas party, Lion's Club Christmas party and North Carolina Insurance Department banquet. The Sir Walter Lion's Club, Musical Arts Society, and Raleigh Music Club had the Ensemble in their programs after Christmas. During the spring the Ensemble presented a concert, as well as participating in the Easter assembly.

The North Carolina high schools have annual projects in which the Ensemble takes part. These projects were the East Carolina NCEA district Boy's Festival on February 2, on March 1, and State Choral Festival in Greensboro on April 19 and 20.

Money is made by an admission for the public concerts. This money is used for the advancement of our Vocal Music Department.

The Mixed Chorus also participated in Project Boy, which was the East Central NCEA district Boy's Festival on February 2 in Raleigh, and in the District Music Contest in Durham on March 1.

The Advanced Mixed Chorus is the largest organization of the Needham Broughton Vocal Music Department. The Chorus gives the singers a chance to develop singing skills in group work.

Ninety-seven students took an active part in the chorus this year. Music was a core subject, and the group met every day.

By working together the Chorus produced excellent Fall, Thanksgiving, Christmas, and Spring Concerts. Also, the group sang for the Baccalaureate Service.

Marshals

Sixteen marshals are elected annually to serve at all school-wide assemblies and at class meetings. Other duties include marshaling at graduation and special programs sponsored by the dramatics and music departments outside of school hours. Marshals must maintain an 82.5 average and display poise at all times. Head marshal for the 1962-63 school year was Steve Bell, with Mr. Holyfield as advisor.

Mizpah Devotional

GEORGE GLASS President
 MARTHA HAYWOOD Vice-President
 SUSAN GRANT Secretary-Treasurer
 JOYCE ROGERS Sergeant-at-Arms

Several years ago some students at Broughton felt the need for a period of Christian fellowship before the day began. They decided to meet each morning with one member leading a discussion and with a special speaker speaking each Friday. Attendance would not be compulsory and there would be no dues. The group called itself the Mizpah

Devotional Club because it adopted the Mizpah, a covenant between Lahan and Jacob. At the conclusion of each meeting, the members pray the covenant: "May the Lord watch between me and thee, while we are absent one from the other."

This year approximately thirty members with advisor Colonel Johnson met each morning in the Student Dining Room. At Thanksgiving the club provided food for a needy family and at Christmas visited several prisons and rest homes to provide entertainment. The club performs such services with the purpose of helping others.

Sports events—the times
when we socialized informally as a school. We felt ourselves growing closer together as we cheered our team on to Victory or swallowed the bitterness of Defeat.

During football season
we thrilled to the color and precision of the Marching Band and the dash and drama of our purple and gold warriors
in Riddick Stadium.
We hoped for another championship,
but our hopes were drowned in the rain accompanying Homecoming.

But we moved on into basketball season . . . We sat under hot lights and watched as our long-legged Art Heymans and Billy Cunninghams raced furiously up and down the court in search of victory.

And always there were pep rallies . . .
We screamed with the cheerleaders, and we felt a real sense of Belonging.

For the boys who played
and the students who watched,
sports provided real excitement that made us say, “We’re from Broughton, Couldn’t be prouder!”

Sports

and a time to lose.”

Football

The 1962-63 Needham Broughton football season started with a bang. The first game was played the day after school opened and the team, which had been practicing since August 15, was ready to go. Austol Youmans and Billy High were the co-captains; Pate Brendle was the only sophomore on the team; and Clyde Walker, Jr. was the mascot. Memories of the season include: the night Broughton shattered Glass, the Virginia State Champions; the bus trips; the game in the rain at Fayetteville; Danny Talbot and the Rocky Mount game; the rained-out homecoming; the injuries that plagued the Caps, the close scores; the good defense; the band, cheerleaders, and majorettes; the first Enloe vs. Broughton game; J.V.; and many more. The Caps finished the season with a 6-3-1 record and tied for second place in the conference. Honors came to the co-captains, Billy and Austol, who played in the Shrine Bowl game. All in all, the 1962-63 football season was one to remember.

Marching Band

Pep and sparkle, "that extra something"—these were provided by the Band at the games. They marched out on the field in perfect order, and their bright purple and gold uniforms and rousing music stirred the school spirit of every spectator. At halftime the audience sat amazed while the Band twined themselves in and out of complicated formations, all while playing anything from "Rock Around the Clock" to "Moon River." At the end of each performance the Band lifted the crowd to its feet with "Cheer Broughton High School."

Band members will not forget: practicing on cold mornings, bus trips, marching in parades, lining up for the team, keeping those shoes WHITE!, trying to think of ways to keep warm, wisecracks, and the wonderful thrill of being in the Marching Band of 1962-1963.

Features

"The joyfulness of a man prolongeth his days."

Features, the Special Events of the school year, the days and nights marked by tradition to be especially looked forward to and anticipated.

There were the dances . . .
The boys looked tall and handsome in suits and ties
as they whirled colorfully-dressed girls
under sparkling lights and decorations.

The air smelled of the sweetness
of night and perfume
in the gym, which had been magically transformed into a winter
wonderland or a Southern plantation
during the day.

These were the Special
Times,

The Good Times . . . a girl's white-gloved hand held lightly in her date's
larger one, the shimmer
of swirling skirts under soft lights, the glow of happy faces, and the soft sweetness of music.

And also the features were the Outstanding Ones, the Beauties, the Winners
in the elections . . .

But whether he was a Winner
or not, every Broughton student
had his own specialness,
a specialness
reflected in the Features.

Homecoming 1962...

And the rains came . . . drowning our plans but not our spirit.

For days the $64,000 question had been "Where can we get a trailer?" Chicken wire and crepe paper had become more precious than gold to the homeroom float chairmen. Publicity, sponsors, judges, floats, awards, corsages: Herb Jackson, our Homecoming chairman, was a man with a thousand things on his mind. Thursday night the work began in earnest. At 12:00 and even later, the finishing touches were being applied to our paint and paper creations.

Alas, Friday morning arrived accompanied by precipitation, to put it mildly. The day wore on, but few minds were turned to math or French as we watched the sky and fought to keep our eyes open. We were ready to saddle those "floats" down Fayetteville Street; however, we had to face facts, namely that our decorated trailers would do anything but float.

Yes, the rains came, but we didn't cry over spilled milk. We hung a blackbird from a second floor clock. We wore corsages under our raincoats. We watched as our sponsors walked proudly over the muddy field. We yelled for our team. This was our Homecoming 1962.

Student-Faculty Olympics . . .

Promoters of Physical Fitness.

This year's Student-Faculty Olympics, as usual, definitely proved that certain veteran teachers here at Broughton are not acquainted with JFK's physical fitness program. In spite of numerous impediments, such as corns, ingrown toenails, and bunions, the faculty stood up well under the pressure exerted by the students. Memories of the game include: . . . Miss Wilkins' graceful movements . . . Mrs. Kahdy's constant cheering . . . the slight mishap which occurred when the rope broke during the tug-of-war . . . "To the" Woods and his ball-throwing ability . . . Mrs. Fulcher's shoe-hunting talents . . . Mrs. Porter's clown outfit.

Although those who had to soak their feet or apply liniment to aching joints might not agree, this year's Student-Faculty Olympics was certainly one of the most fun and long-to-be-remembered ever.

Who's your date, Richard?

Follow the white ball, girls.

Watch that toe, "To the" Woods!

Rockettes of tomorrow.

Queen of Hearts Court . . .

One of the most looked-forward to and exciting events of the year was the Queen of Hearts program. It was a time to dream . . . to reminisce . . . to be sentimental. The entire school elected two dark-haired beauties, Audrey Wall and Diane Strickland, to reign as Queen and Maid of Honor respectively, while each class elected its own representatives to the Court.

The assembly that Friday morning, February 15, was breathtaking. Each girl entered the gym and walked to the heart in the center, where she was met by her escort. Together they completed the walk to the replica of the Southern mansion occupying the far end of the gym. The audience oohed and aahed over each girl, dressed stunningly in a floor-length gown reflecting her own personality and individuality.

Following the presentation of the Court and the Maid of Honor, Audrey Wall, the Queen of our Hearts, entered with her escort Kip Ferrell, the President of the Senior Class. She was crowned by Kip on her throne on the porch of the mansion, and then the Court and the audience settled back to be royally entertained by singers Diane Johnston and Dottie Nahikian, by dancer Suzy Sterling, and by folk singers Beast, Beauty, Beast and the Southern Squires.

But when the beautiful assembly ended, the Valentine festivities were not yet over. Saturday night the Senior Class honored the Queen and her Court at a dance in the boys' gym. Following the presentation of the girls, entertainment was provided by Pat Mooney, Roxanne Rogers, and the Villagers. When 11:00, the magic hour, came, happy students left the gym with memories of soft music, decorations of a bygone Old South world, and the beautiful Queen of Hearts Court 1963.

This was Broughton 1962-1963 . . .

In some ways this year was like all others.
There were moments of . . .

excitement . . .

and happiness.

solitude . . .

disappointment . . .

But in other ways this year was a year apart.

We had our own fads . . .

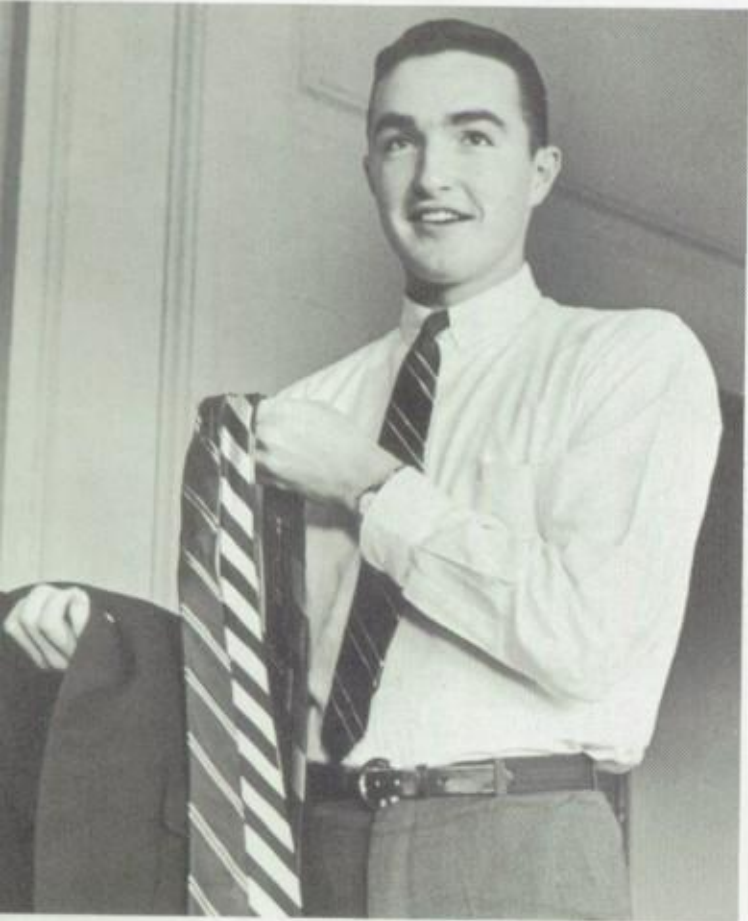

Girls wore
wrap-around skirts, long socks, shifts,
Villagers, burgundy,
Chesterfields, boy coats,
 madras, link belks,
charm bracelets, kilts, and culottes . . .

Boys wore madras, Gant shirts, sweaters,
link belts, madras billfolds . . .

And everybody wore Fogs and Weejuns . . .

but whatever we wore, the ultimate goal was to be called
"sharp."

It was the year that girls wore wigs and teased their hair . . .

the year that everybody danced
the Twist, the Slop,
the Mashed Potatoes, and the Bossa Nova . . .

We listened to Ray Charles, Johnny Mathis, Tommy Edwards,
Peter, Paul, and Mary, the Kingston Trio, Bo Diddley, Ricky Nelson, Dave Brubeck, Joan Baez, and the First Family Album.

On the "tube" we watched Troy Donahue, Connie Stevens, Doctors Casey and Kildare, a kooky bunch of sailors knows as "McHale's Navy," and a whacky family of "Beverly Hillbillies" . . .

At the "flick" we enjoyed the color of "Gypsy"
and bit our fingernails at "What Ever Happened to Baby Jane?"

We liked to go places and do things. On dates we went to movies, and games, we played bridge, and some of the girls even took up knitting. And always we loved to EAT: hamburgers at the L&M and Shoney's, cokes at the Red Wolf and Kerr Rexall, pizza at Capri's and Gino's, and apple cider (sometimes) at the Rat.

We liked, among other things, the opposite sex, weeds, 3:30, arguing,
holidays, and bus trips to games . . .

We had our own vocabulary—
"Ha, ha, ha" . . . "I ain't telling" . . . "scrunch" . . .
"I can't believe it" . . . "Good news!" . . .
"Let's get MOving please!" . . .
"Croak" . . . "LET me . . . enterTAIN you" . . .
"Mother, please, I'd rather do it myself!"

Yes, it was a great year . . .
our year, together.

*"... nothing can bring back the hour
of splendor in the grass, of glory in the flower ..."*

SUSIE MEMORY
Editor-in-chief

From the Editor . . .

Well, it's finally over. And what a job! No one but a journalism student could appreciate the thousands of ideas and details that go into making up an annual like this one.

The '63 LATIPAC first began to take shape way last summer when a group of journalism students got together at my house to pool ideas. We fell in love with the idea of using time as a theme for our annual, and once school started, ideas began flying thick and fast (well . . . most of the time, anyway).

Then came the down-to-earth process of confining our ideas to inches, spaces and paragraphs. There were pictures to be taken and identified, copy to be written, and decisions to make. But over the whole process hung an air of excitement and anticipation that made it fun.

So many people have contributed so much in so many ways to the making of the annual—I can name only a few of them in expressing my thanks . . .

To the journalism classes, who worked tirelessly on all the little details . . .

To Jim and Burnie, the happy little photographers from Burnie Batchelor Studios who never got mad or became impatient (even though I did) . . .

To Mr. Paul Hoch and Jeff Hill, our two "guardian angels" at Edwards and Broughton, who listened to our ideas with genuine interest and work to solve our production problems . . .

To all the people who posed for pictures or helped me find way-out props at the last minute . . .

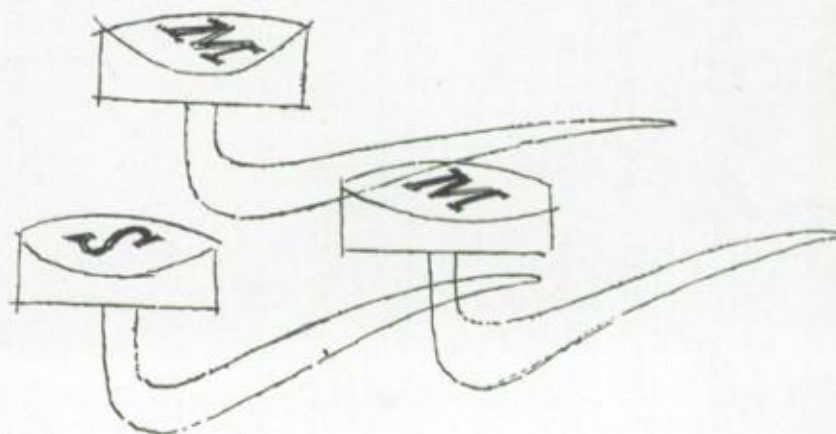

To Jack Eason, who didn't even take journalism but who gave me invaluable assistance in many areas . . .

To my family, especially my sister Stella, who helped me by listening enthusiastically to my ideas and by doing many little jobs for me in the wee hours of the morning. On one memorable occasion, she even stayed up all night with me trying to get the senior section ready to go to press . . .

And finally, to Miss Paschal, our advisor. No annual editor anywhere could have had a better person to work with than I had. Always she listened to my harebrained ideas and gave me encouragement. But most important of all, she let us do the annual the way we wanted to, so that it would be a real expression of the students. She never forced rules on us, but was always there in the background, picking up information and suggestions we couldn't have done without. Her calmness and down-to-earthness kept us from going off the deep end when big problems arose. To Miss Paschal goes my deepest admiration and appreciation, for she was the real backbone of the annual.

One final word . . . if you have any gripes or find any mistakes, don't tell me. I may just throw up my hands and scream, because there's nothing I can do about them now.

All in all, it's been a wonderful year, and I can sincerely say that I enjoyed every minute of it because it was all part of the LATIPAC 1963.

135 WORDS ABOUT FREEDOM

The greatest threats to our freedoms are from forces outside our borders. But there's also a dangerous force within. Subtle. Persistent. Almost unperceived. It's this nation's steady advance toward more federal-government-in-business . . . and the accompanying effect on our individual affairs.

There are many examples, but take the electric light and power business as a case in point. In 1935, the federal government produced less than one per cent of the electric industry's total output. Today, this figure has climbed to 15 per cent. And there is constant pressure from advocates of government-in-business for even more expansion.

When government owns business in this manner—when it controls economic as well as political power—it becomes almost impossible for an individual to defend his freedoms.

Is this a risk you want to take?
